

PERSON OF FOCUS

Person of Focus:

1. Judge this person. Don't hold back. Let all the "ugly" judgments out of your head. One sentence per line below. Don't edit yourself or try to be appropriate or kind. Get it all out.

Now, go back through the list and notice how many of these judgments also apply to you. Circle those that are true about you. Notice that most judgments of others are projections we have of ourselves.

PERSON OF FOCUS

2. Describe the manual you have for the person of focus. What are your expectations of that person. What do you most want that person to do, and why? Let yourself go to a perfect world where that person does exactly what you want them to do and when you want it. Be specific and allow yourself to be outrageous.

*What you would be thinking and feeling if that person did all these things perfectly?
Notice that you can think and feel this things anyway.*

PERSON OF FOCUS

7. What do you want to be in this relationship? In other words, what kind of employee, spouse, sibling, or friend do you want to be? Make sure you think about this separately from the other person's behavior – don't let that determine who you are. Decide who you want to be. Take some time to write it all out.

8. How do you want to feel? Why?

PERSON OF FOCUS

9. How do you want to act and show up?

10. What do you want to offer this person?

PERSON OF FOCUS

11. How do you want to think? Remember that your relationship with someone is all about your thoughts about them and yourself within that relationship.

12. How do you want to think about yourself in this relationship?

PERSON OF FOCUS

13. How do you want to think about the other person in this relationship?

14. How do you want to define and think about your relationship together?

PERSON OF FOCUS

15. Write an “I’ve been meaning to tell you” letter below. This is a letter you can send or not send. Just writing it feels amazing. I love to send these in a mail unexpectedly.

Dear _____ ,

I’ve been meaning to tell you...

I admire you for...

I’m thankful for...

I remember when...

You have shown me how...

You told me...

I’m grateful for...

I love you because...
